- Boy:* Here is our shopping list. We have to buy some bread, carrots, potatoes and a book for Chris. I'll go to the greengrocer's and the bakery and you go to the bookshop, OK?
- Girl:* No way! I am not buying a book for Chris without you. What if I choose one he doesn't like?
- Boy:* Well, we haven't got enough time to go to the bookshop together.
- Girl:* OK, so here is the plan. You go and choose the book and I'll get the bread. Then I'll wait for you at the greengrocer's.
- Boy:* OK, then we can carry everything home together.

Tekst 2.

- Boy:* Are you ready for Aunt Emily's wedding?
- Girl:* Almost, I've bought a beautiful evening dress. Look.
- Boy:* Wow, it's truly amazing.
- Girl:* I only have to buy a little black bag to go with the dress.
- Boy:* What about shoes?
- Girl:* Well, I'll wear the pair Aunt Emily gave me for my last birthday.

Tekst 3.

- Man:* When I talked to our players before the championships, they seemed quite optimistic. I guess they weren't really surprised by their easy victory in the final. What are they going to say about their historic win? I'm standing with a crowd of fans waiting for our champions to land. As you can hear, people are cheering and singing. Everybody is ready to welcome our team right here in the arrivals hall after their long flight. I'll be back in a few minutes. Now over to you, Jack, for more sports news.

Tekst 4.

- Girl:* Grandpa, it's me, Lisa. You won't believe it, but a few hours ago I found a kitten in the park! He looked hungry. I took him home, gave him some food and now he is sleeping under my bed. My parents don't know anything about the kitten yet and I haven't spoken to anybody else. Please don't tell anyone. I'll call you later.

Tekst 5.

- Boy:* Let's play a game. I'll talk about someone and you have to guess who it is.
- Girl:* OK, I'm ready.
- Boy:* So, this person's favourite book is Anne of Green Gables and I think she is just like Anne in the novel: intelligent, imaginative and she always says what she thinks. I really like spending time with her. We even sit together in our English class. Recently, she joined a theatre club and I think she may become a professional actress.
- Girl:* I think I know who she is.

Boy: The teacher entered the classroom with a very serious face and gave each of us a page with 20 test questions. She explained we had to read all the questions first before we started answering them. But the test questions were so easy that I started writing my answers while reading. When I got to the last one, I saw the words “Don’t answer any of the questions. Just write your name.” And then my teacher said with a smile, “It’s April Fool’s Day today.”

Girl: The day before April Fool’s Day, my friend and I got some pieces of paper and wrote “WET PAINT – PLEASE DON’T TOUCH” on them. The next day we put the pieces of paper on some of the desks in our classroom and on the teacher’s desk, too. We had so much fun watching our classmates who tried not to touch their desks. But our teacher, Miss Frisk, immediately knew it was a joke.

Boy: In our history classroom there are many posters of kings and queens on the walls. On the day before April Fool’s Day we replaced the faces of the kings and queens with photos of famous actors and actresses. The biggest poster was of King Henry VIII. We put a photo of our teacher’s face on it. Then during the lesson we asked our teacher why he looked so similar to King Henry. Our teacher joked that the king was his great-great-grandfather.

Girl: On the first of April, our class decided to switch classrooms for the first lesson with another class. When their teacher walked in, she was surprised to see us instead of her students. She went out to check if she had gone into the right classroom. Then she came back in and found us all laughing.

Man: When students hear the word “poetry”, they usually think of old poems which are hard to understand. But poetry has so much more to offer! We want to invite all our students to take part in the school poetry competition. The topic for the competition this year is Wild Animals. You will have to perform an original poem you have written yourself. Your poem can be about any wild animal you like. That means you can’t write a poem about your pet. Another thing to remember is that you are only allowed three minutes for your performance. If you go over time, two points will be taken away from your score. After your performance, our experts will have five minutes to ask you some questions. And remember you have to perform your poem, and not read it, so you have to learn your poem by heart and say it from memory. Are you interested? If so, then register for the Poetry Competition today, on the school website.
